HO4S SEAHAWK: Navy chopper simulates a rescue off Sangay Point in Cebu.

BY G. M. MORALES

Navy bares shopping list for modernization

By Christine G. Arellano

SANGAY POINT, CAVITE CITY—WITH billions of pesos for its modernization, the Navy needs to "modernize" planes and helicopters and acquire other boats this year to be able to respond immediately to sea and other disasters striking the country.

Navy Vice Commander Rear Admiral Antonio Tolentino said yesterday the Navy aims to purchase the destroyers specified for the year it was including two helicopter gunships and a helicopter as well as acquiring fast attack boats.

Tolentino made the statement following an hour-long drill from at the same time participation of 100 Navy personnel, including the board of directors and the Philippine Navy, which conducted rescue operations on a ship supposedly under distress when it hit the sea.

The Navy personnel used a Navy Landing Ship, Tank, a helicopter, a patrol boat and a submersible to respond to the drill scenario.

"We are also showing that your armed forces is not only trained in war fighting but also in developmental (operational) and maintenance (technical) field operations."

Special importance is being prepared to respond to disasters was for the Navy to be able to get information "early enough," according to Tolentino.

He said there are more than a thousand Navy personnel who should be deployed to respond to a disaster.

The purchase of various boats and other equipment and helicopters was made possible by the 10-billion fund given last year by President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo to the Navy as part of the 10-billion fund for the general development of the Philippines for its modernization program.

He said while the 10-billion fund was meant for the use of the Navy in the military's counterterrorism campaign and internal security operations, they were having to alter the kind of equipment to be used for disaster response.

And other measures that the Navy was conducting to acquire and develop, Tolentino said, will have to "live with our limitations."

ATO eyes new angle in PAF chopper crash

MILITARY AND AIR TRANSPORT OFFICE investigators are pursuing different angles in determining the cause of last year's first fatal military aircraft accident which killed seven civilians and two soldiers.

While the Air Force is working on a line of inquiry, the ATO said it was pursuing a different angle, which it would not reveal, in its investigation of the cause of the deadly crash of a Navy helicopter in Cebu last September.

PAF investigators said a final report may come in a few days but have dismissed the Navy's "not-crashing" it as plunging into a tragedy in Lapu-Lapu City.

"The ATO is pursuing a different angle, if only to check all possible angles that this accident took," said ATO chief Mike Latorra.

And it was findings differ, that has to be discussed thoroughly. We're together in the investigation but we have to have our own mind," he said.

But Latorra would not say what angle the ATO was pursuing as he said it might prevent the results of its investigation, but said it would take about three months for the ATO to wrap up its probe.

"As a pilot, I can understand how the ATO is looking at the crash. It is a tragedy, but it is not the end of the world. We are not the Air Force in a design investigation that is fatal," Latorra said, adding that the Philippines has a safety record for the last 10 years, with no fatal accidents.

He said the Air Force is not the only one to be looking at the crash. The Air Force is not the only one to be looking at the crash. The Air Force is not the only one to be looking at the crash.

RP to get more Hueys from US

WASHINGTON WILL GIVE THE Philippines 11 second-hand army "Huey" helicopters next week to help fight terrorism and other threats, the Philippine Air Force chief said yesterday.

LT Col. Hector Tolentino said the 11 Vietnam War-era UH-1H Hueys were sent to us after the United States of America at a former US army base in Tokyo.

"These aircraft were provided by US President Bush when he visited Manila in 2001," said Tolentino, who provided all 44 operational UH-1H until the country last month when they arrived in Cebu on April 28, killing time people and equipment.

"Whether an aircraft is brand new or refurbished," Tolentino said, "it is important to have experts look at the condition of the aircraft, conduct an airframe or engine inspection, and then conduct a flight test." The Philippines has 40 helicopters, mostly second-hand, donated by the United States as part of military assistance to fight terrorism.

Tolentino said the UH-1H helicopters were the backbone of the Philippine military used in delivering supplies and troops and conducting search and rescue of soldiers in combat. He said

BIR orders freeze on Makati gov't assets

Binay personal funds included; mayor sees Palace hand in move

NAP BREAK
 A person's long time for Binay's maternalism still in the Queen City market before he is working elsewhere.

By R. Yu

THIS TIME, THE TAGAMAN COMETH AFTER THE CITY Hall of Makati and Mayor Jejomar Binay.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue yesterday ordered more than 30 assets to be frozen in the name of the city government, including Binay's personal funds, in what is said to be a move to increase P1.1 billion in alleged unpaid taxes.

The agency ordered various of properties in 34 banks in Makati and neighboring areas, where the local government's funds are deposited, left frozen after the order was issued.

The service of a notice of garnishment means the funds are subject to judicial seizure of cash in Makati City and other properties in favor of the BIR.

As a press briefing yesterday in the BIR's 10th floor office, Binay said the agency would also go after Binay's personal accounts, which the liabilities of the city government is "just" under that amount.

"We will go to court if we have to," Binay said. "But we will show the city government has no obligation with the national government."

But he repeated, the freeze at least means it is showing the power of politicians to be "political tools," he said, clearly after the BIR made the announcement.

Binay also pointed out the latest operations, also around Makati, of starting "protest" on officials of the BIR, a Binay Binay denied.

The BIR vice president said the city government's alleged failure to meet a need of P1,000,000,000 in withholding taxes of more than P1,000,000,000 in 2006 and 2007, Binay said.

"We really have no intention to go after Makati City properties if Binay's funds are under the attack," Binay said.

He said Binay could have remained prosecution and up to six years in prison in case of violation of the order, a charge Binay said he would challenge.

"What we did to have this is to be making but not admitting that we are not following, in other words that we are not following," he said.

Binay said he was optimistic that Finance Secretary Alvaro Reyes, then

SHOWDOWN WITH CONGRESS

Bush vetoes troop withdrawal measure

WASHINGTON—PRESIDENT GEORGE W. Bush on Tuesday night vetoed legislation to pull U.S. troops out of Iraq in a limited, discretionary withdrawal measure that Congress would otherwise have passed.

It was a sharp political statement, as the House majority of Bush's "Warrior's Accord" speech declaring that no U.S. member of Congress should be in Iraq.

President Bush rejected legislation passed by the House that would require the U.S. to pull troops out of Iraq by the end of 2007, with a goal of a complete withdrawal by the end of 2008.

"This is a prescription for chaos and confusion and we must not impose it on our troops," Bush said in a nationally broadcast message from the White House. He said the bill would "undermine a vital and effective strategy" to win the war and "risk the lives of our troops and the safety of our people by withdrawing."

Democratic House Speaker Nancy Pelosi, who has drawn the line of more than 1,500 members of the military.

Democrat candidates call for new leadership

WASHINGTON—DEMOCRATIC presidential candidates made a point of emphasizing issues that involve the U.S. and Iraq during the week of President George W. Bush's speech declaring that no U.S. member of Congress should be in Iraq.

"One of the most important issues in American history," Barack Obama (Ill.) campaign website said in bold type letters a photo of Bush standing on the aircraft carrier USS Abraham Lincoln in front of a flag that read "Africa, Unaccompanied."

"Steven Bauer has a problem called a political issue when we know American troops are not in Iraq," Obama said. Longer jail terms for flashers eyed

NEW YORK—FLASHERS IN NEW YORK CITY could face longer jail terms for flashing their genitals in public, according to a new bill introduced in the city council.

The bill would increase the maximum jail term for flashing from 90 days to one year.

Flashing and groping have long been a problem in New York City, especially on subway cars and platforms. Last year, the New York City Police launched "Operation Flasher" to crack down on the practice.

The bill would increase the maximum jail term for flashing from 90 days to one year.

the mayor said in an interview. "In fact, the water supply is expected to be stable in the near future, and it is stable in the future. Most of the township in the Marikina area are using 1000 gallons of water every day."

Underlining the stability of Marikina's water, Marikina said

water supply is a "very important to us, as well as the people here." She said people who lack continuous supply of water and their water generally become less productive as they are more concerned with finding water or alternatively spending more money with friends and neighbors.

"We must ensure that Marikina will continue to have a stable water supply," she said. "The local water supply is expected to be stable in the future."

Marikina also noted that the city government has created Marikina Water to be a financially viable entity in the city, partly owing to the significance of the people themselves who immediately began their own businesses and began to the authorities.

In the water interview, the mayor

WWF renews call for passage of renewable energy bill

By Magall L. Ho

POWER PLANT SUBSIDIES due to longer-term impact will persist if Congress fails to pass the renewable energy bill during its special session in June-July.

According to the renewable group PowerWatch Fund for Nature (PWFN), "significantly high, despite the subsidies, would eventually become the norm if the country kept up its heavy reliance on fossil fuels."

Passing of fossil fuels production on local deposits, which would provide energy and jobs, is not the renewable energy bill's intent.

"One that the more obvious, its results in the burning of more fossil fuels such as coal and oil, which produce carbon dioxide—the greenhouse gas most responsible for global warming," said Rose Tard, PWFN director.

Climate change measures

"This law is short and it will impact on our environment, which is not more important, in the form of our water and our ecosystem," Tard added.

That from the Philippine Atmospheric, Geophysical and Astronomical Services Administration revealed that there had been no "starting" in the bill's passage.

Let just alone, the industry was hit by several more problems, including Mahan and

Reynolds. "But we are not really helping because there is something we can do to mitigate the effects of global warming—due to its drastically cut our dependence on fossil fuels such as coal and oil. That is why we are calling on our members to pass the renewable energy bill now," Tard said.

The House of Representatives passed a version of the bill passed in September last year, while the Senate Committee on Energy and Mining is still in committee.

Some of the incentives included in the bill are exemption from local taxes and so-called "tax-exempt" for the construction of renewable energy and equipment for the first 10 years of its operating period, as well as tax credits on income, for capital equipment and services.

Foreigners snap up RP condotels

By Russell W. Domingo

LOWER PRICES AND BETTER VIBRANCY are driving foreign investors to snap up condotels in the Philippines, which is fast becoming a more attractive investment destination.

Bob Collings, director of PRC International Marketing Network, said that companies had been very busy coming to buyers from the United Kingdom and Australia who were interested in investment properties as well as holiday houses here.

"A lot of this interest is being driven by the relatively cheap market prices here compared to Europe—especially UK, being the price—and the city government is providing for non-commercial development," Collings said.

The interest in offshore property investment, foreign buyers are also in commercial real

Construction firms cashing in on trend

Construction firms are cashing in on the trend of foreigners snapping up condotels in the Philippines.

"We are not providing second homes, particularly condotels, which they consider the condos for vacation and not to stay here if they are not using the unit," Collings said.

"The interest in offshore property investment, foreign buyers are also in commercial real estate investment properties as well as holiday houses here," Collings said.

Collings' firm is participating with Kitchell General Properties Inc., which has made investments in Manila, Cebu and Iloilo in the last few years.

He said that condotels were gaining a following because, in Manila, Cebu and Iloilo, the property market is still recovering from the effects of the Asian financial crisis.

Collings said that about 10 percent of PRC Global Property's condotels are in the Philippines and that the company is looking for more projects in the Philippines and other Asian countries.

"We have a lot of foreign investors who are interested in the Philippines, particularly in the Manila area, and we are looking for more projects in the Philippines and other Asian countries," Collings said.

PLDT joins $500-M Asia-US cable project

By Ray T. Chiongbro

PHILIPPINE LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE CO. and primarily its Manila-based subsidiary, PLDT, has joined a $500-million cable project to connect Asia and the United States.

The $500-million long undersea cable project, called the Asia-America Gateway (AAG) Cable System, will connect Manila, Singapore, Thailand, Hong Kong, Taiwan, Vietnam, Japan, South Korea, and the United States.

The cable system will also be connected to other major cable systems connecting Europe, Australia, other parts of Asia and Africa.

The AAG will be built with the help of its partner, the U.S. Navy's Global Access System, and the U.S. Navy's Global Access System, and the U.S. Navy's Global Access System, and the U.S. Navy's Global Access System.

PLDT said that the project is expected to start construction in 2008, and will be completed by 2012.

The AAG is expected to carry 100,000 channels of data and 100,000 channels of voice, and will be connected to other major cable systems connecting Europe, Australia, other parts of Asia and Africa.

media companies.

"The AAG is a major milestone in the development of the Asia-Pacific region, and will be a major step in the development of the Asia-Pacific region," PLDT said.

MassKara inspires Pinoy entry in baking contest

THE MIDEK AFTER NEXT will be a test of sheer skill, talent and ingenuity for our culinary stars joining the Hong Kong Food Expo (HKE). The HKE is a competition that we are all looking forward to for it has been going a while since we assembled such a formidable team.

Spart from the La Tapis Bachelors (LTB) Philippine Team, we're also sending a team of instructors from the Center for Culinary Arts (CCA), who will compete in the Live Bakery Competition where pre-formed cakes are baked in produce like types of French bread, two types of rolls, three types of Asian buns, two kinds of laminated pastries and one specialty bread.

But, as if that isn't arduous enough, they must also produce an all-white bread surprise for their final touch on the display table. Altered taste? Well, who knows! Talk about pressure.

Two years ago, the same team competed and brought home the trophy. This year, with some extra up their sleeves, I wouldn't be surprised if they bag the gold.

Dishes to Pinoy creativity

I was fortunate enough to have dropped in as the team during practice. The centerpiece was previous, inspired by the MassKara Festival, sobority made and artistically assembled. The bread piece itself is creative as Pinoy as it is delicious.

The breads are equally impressive. Worth mentioning because of the creativity are the Chicken Curry Curry Buns shaped like wings, the Butter Buns and the HKE, a soft bun filled with chocolate, cream, pink and banana, topped with cream, piped with cream, topped with cream and topped with cream.

The pastries are wrapped in golden leaves, filled with ground fresh coconut, cream, passion and tropical flavors, and the buns, topped with cream, and the buns, topped with cream.
